

I. Amendment to the Abstract

Please add the following abstract to the "Abstract" section

ABSTRACT

Security elements for documents with a target-oriented electric code formed by electrically conductive structures arranged relative to each other or within each other or within each other and separated by non-conductive structures and further provided with electrically conductive examination indicia arranged in a target-oriented manner to yield predetermined signal pattern when examined by an examination apparatus for comparison with stored patterns.